30th Anniversary of the European Group of Public Law (EGPL)

The European Group of Public Law (EGPL) celebrated its 30th Anniversary at the Archaeological Site of the Roman Agora of Athens.

The official celebration of the 30th anniversary of the founding of the European Public Law Group (EGPL) of the EPLO took place on Saturday, September 14, 2019 at 8:00 pm at the Archaeological Site of the Roman Agora in Athens, under the auspices of H. E. The President of the Hellenic Republic, Mr. Prokopios Pavlopoulos, who was also the keynote speaker at the event.

The President of the Hellenic Republic Mr. Prokopios Pavlopoulos praised the contribution of the European Public Law Organization in the context of European Unification and its contribution to achieving the goal of European integration.

President Pavlopoulos mentioned, among other things “The global role of the European Union is that - based on its History, its Culture and the conditions of birth of the vision that leads the steps of its unification - it has to evolve into the force that will defend existential, for the Mankind, principles and values. These are the principles and values of Peace, Democracy – specifically of Representative Democracy - and of Fundamental Human Rights, principally of the Rights which are inextricably linked to the concept of Justice, and in particular Social Justice. (...) a strong Unified Europe, capable of fulfilling its global role, requires the necessary institutional and political cohesion of the entirety of the European Edifice, which can only be guaranteed by definitive European Unification».

At the same time he stressed "(...) Without the necessary cohesion and with the perspective of its unification being doubtful - as it, unfortunately, is today - it is clear that the European Union cannot inspire the prestige which, even until its recent past, made it "attractive" for the states of the Old Continent to “struggle”, literally, to adhere to it ”.
