The Deputy PM of Greece and Ministers at the 2nd Quo Vadis Artificial Intelligence Conference

A fruitful and multi-dimensional discussion concerning the developments in the field of Artificial Intelligence (AI) was held during the 2nd Quo Vadis AI International Conference on Friday, June 17th, 2022, at the Divani Caravel Hotel. The conference was hosted by the Institute for Privacy Law, Data Protection and Technology (IPL) and the Institute for Justice and Growth (IJG) of the European Public Law Organization (EPLO).

Two years after the first Quo Vadis AI Conference, hosted by the Institute for Privacy Law, Data Protection and Technology rapid progress has been noted in the field of Artificial Intelligence, with regard to the influence of AI in the private sector; and its infiltration in European law which is seen through proposed regulations such as the Artificial Intelligence Act (AI Act).

This progress in AI was discussed and explained by renowned domestic and foreign speakers, representatives of the Greek State and European institutions; academics and researchers; as well as representatives of the business community. They expanded upon various topics of AI which resulted in an interdisciplinary, educational and critical discussion on the consequences of the use of A.I. and the algorithm surveillance of citizen's rights, the role of A.I. in the development of research and innovation and its relationship with the market, as well as the prospects which are being introduced for the use of A.I. in the judicial system and in the public sector.

Introductory remarks of the event were made by the Director of EPLO, Mr. Spyridon Flogaitis, and the President of the "Institute for Justice and Growth" of EPLO, Mr. Nicolas Kanellopoulos.

Opening speeches were made by the Deputy Prime Minister of Greece, Mr. Panagiotis Pikrammenos, and the Minister for Justice, Mr Kostas Tsiaras.
