European Institute for Criminal Law and Criminal Justice System

The European Institute for Criminal Law and the Criminal Justice System is a late addition to EPLO's broad range of Institutes. It brings together leading scholars to explore central issues in classical criminal law doctrine as well as the philosophical foundations of the criminal law. In particular, it is concerned with the doctrinal and philosophical analysis of contemporary problems in European criminal law and the law of individual European states (including the UK).

To this end, the Institute runs workshops and conferences. Furthermore, its statute foresees the possibility that the Institute will, in the near future, offer a taught postgraduate degree.

The Institute operates as an autonomous unit of EPLO under the responsibility of its Director and scientific council. The Scientific Council includes twenty-one scholars of international reputation, from many different European jurisdictions, specialising in criminal law, the philosophy of criminal law, or theoretical criminology.
