Round table on "Consensual parliamentarism and structural reforms in troubled times. The case of Greece".

The need for bold reforms in modern parliamentary democracies in recent years has created a dynamic of allied governments, something that happens in our country by 2011.

In this context and with regards to seeking ways of improving the quality and the social effectiveness of the political power, the European Public Law Organization (EPLO) organizes on Thursday 16th of June 2016 at 4.30 pm, at the Plaka premise of the EPLO in Athens (entrance of the Roman Agora, Dioscuron Street and Pikilis Square) a round table on the subject: "Consensual parliamentarism and structural reforms in troubled times. The case of Greece".

The presentation of the distinguished Professor Mrs. Despina Alexiadou, Assistant Professor, Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh, USA, specializing in issues of multiparty governments will take a core part of the discussion.

Interesting lectures and videotaped messages from academics, politicians, technocrats and personalities of international renown, will crown the event with their own political, social and cultural stigma.
